

Aimhigher London Partner Spotlight

Our partnership with Aimhigher London plays an important role in helping the us reach and inspire students from a wide range of backgrounds. Through collaborative activities, we are able to create meaningful opportunities for students to explore higher education, hear authentic student experiences, and begin to see themselves at university. Working together allows us to broaden our impact and support more young people to make informed decisions about their future. Caitlin Atha, Student Recruitment Coordinator, Roehampton

University of Roehampton story

The University of Roehampton's is one of our most committed and valued university partners, whose dedication to fair access and widening participation continues to make a meaningful impact across our network. Over the years they have hosted campus visits for every key stage, delivered specialist subject tasters and degree apprenticeship insights and hosted residential and conferences. Their approach is consistent, inclusive and impactful.

In 2025-26, the Widening Participation team continue to play an active role in a wide range of collaborative activity. Including engaging academic led sessions in schools and on campus across subject areas including business and law, nursing and teaching, offering learners valuable insights into higher education and subject pathways. They've contributed their expertise on our career webinar panels and hosted our Discover University Day, for KS3 and KS4 care-experienced learners, featuring an interactive workshop from Become.

What makes the partnership particularly powerful is our shared ethos. We especially value Roehampton's student ambassadors, some of whom are alumni of Aimhigher, such as Frankie Cummings, who bring authenticity, relatability and inspiration to the young people they engage with. They are a true credit to the university and to the strength of the partnership.

We are proud to work alongside the University of Roehampton, we value their continued dedication to widening participation, and their collaborative approach to inspiring young people to realise their potential.

Esther Oduor, HEI Partner and Events Manager, Aimhigher London

FINDING FUTURES

An inclusive roadmap preparing learners from all backgrounds, to progress onto higher education, apprenticeships and the world of work. Experiences in school, on campus and online for all age groups, parents, carers and teachers

Our programmes align directly with Office for Student priorities, with evidence of what works for our partner Access and Participation Plans.

With strong school relationships, our focus on learners from low socio-economic backgrounds and those with protected characteristics, enables us to deliver meaningful and impactful engagements for them, in support of their progression and continued success in higher education.

95% track record of learners receiving university offers annually

97% AHL learners were offered a university place in 2024

The learner journey and the learner voice is central to our work

68% of KS3 learners agreed they better understood the benefits of university

76% of KS4 learners agreed our events helped them identify subjects they'd enjoy studying beyond school

86% of KS5 learners felt they would be able to learn like university students

For more information on becoming a member of Aimhigher London contact us on aimhigherlondon@kingston.ac.uk or visit our website for more information